

Aaron Hickey Candidate Statement

The structured settlement industry has been a part of my life for as long as I can remember. Growing up around this business and later building my own career within it has given me a deep appreciation for the role our industry plays in protecting injured individuals and providing long-term financial security for families.

Today, as CEO of Brant Hickey & Associates, I have the privilege of working closely with claims professionals, attorneys, and brokers across the country. Those relationships have reinforced something I believe strongly: the strength of our industry has always come from collaboration, professionalism, and a shared commitment to doing what is right for claimants.

Through my involvement with National Structured Settlements Trade Association – particularly through the NextGen Committee & Legislative Trips in Washington DC – I have also seen how important it is that we invest in the next generation of consultants and industry leaders. Our responsibility is not only to protect what has been built over the past several decades, but to ensure that structured settlements remain strong, relevant, and trusted well into the future.

If reelected to the Board, I would focus on continuing to strengthen industry relationships, supporting meaningful education for members, and encouraging thoughtful innovation that helps consultants better serve the claims and legal communities.

NSSTA has played a major role in shaping this industry, and it would be a privilege to contribute to its continued success and to serve the membership moving forward.
